

Brennan announces partnership with wireless broadband carrier, BigAir

SYDNEY, May 30 2007 - Brennan, a leading provider of IT services and Telecommunications solutions to the mid-market has today signed a partnership agreement with wireless broadband carrier, BigAir, that will see Brennan offering BigAir's wireless broadband solutions to its customer base. This agreement will ensure Brennan's customers have access to not only the best IT products for their needs, but also the infrastructure for true high-quality wireless connectivity to boost productivity.

Managing Director of Brennan, Dave Stevens, said that the channel partnership would allow Brennan to offer an affordable, alternative high-speed connectivity for its customers.

"Working with BigAir allows us to offer a convenient last mile solution that is fast and cost effective, especially where we can't access copper or fibre or where we want to offer redundancy to clients.

"Wireless broadband is the obvious way forward for the future of broadband because of the flexibility it affords. It is still early days but we are seeing stronger awareness in the market and growing demand," said Stevens.

Commenting on the partnership, Jason Ashton, CEO of BigAir said: "Wireless connectivity has been proven time and again to be a key driver in business productivity, and through our partnership with Brennan, we're are please to be driving this trend and providing a strong fit for the needs of Brennan's mid-market customers. "

"Building mutually beneficial channel relationships with our partners is a key focus of our business and through our channel program we are able to explore new opportunities in an under served market and meet the needs of a broader array of Australian businesses who require faster, more reliable and cost-efficient data connections, through a network of specialist system integrators," he said.
